Attorney General Moody's Week In Review - Feb. 10, 2023

This week, following the Chinese spy balloon saga, I cautioned Florida parents about another potential security risk—China-owned social media company TikTok. My office is actively investigating the popular social media app over its harmful effects on children, engagement techniques and data collection.

As a mom, an American and Florida's Attorney General, I have major concerns about how TikTok may be influencing children and exploiting user data. I have banned the app in my home and at our office.

Many U.S. universities are banning the use of TikTok on campus. Just last month, the University of Florida sent a letter to its faculty, staff and students, recommending everyone delete TikTok from all mobile devices—citing national security concerns due to the possibility of foreign governments using the app to collect and access user data.

I demanded TikTok allow parents to monitor their child's social media use through parent controls, and for the company to take immediate action in raising its age ratings to mature or 17+.

Parents, please consider deleting the app from your children's devices to better protect personal information.

By taking steps to safeguard your family's data, you can help us build a Stronger, Safer Florida.

In The News

Ashley Moody Warns Parents About TikTok After Chinese Spy Balloon, Florida Daily

Read More

Students react: State officials suggest you delete TikTok, CW 44 Tampa Bay

Read More

Attorney General Moody talks child safety, protection from online predators, CBS 12 News

Read More

Florida AG Moody Demands Mexican Cartels Be Designated As 'Terrorist' Organizations, The Free Press

Read More

Moody Pressures Biden to Designate Cartel as Terrorists, Floridian Press

Read More