

Date June 02, 2023

Attorney General Moody's Week in Review - June 2, 2023

?

This week, in recognition of the beginning of hurricane season, we released our 2023 Hurricane Preparedness Guide. The guide is filled with tips and information to help Floridians prepare for a storm strike—or any scams that could arise before, during or in the aftermath.

The release comes after a new report claims one in five Floridians have no intention of making storm preparations and one in four would not even follow evacuation warnings.

This is extremely concerning, especially on the heels of last year's devastating season that caused tremendous damage and flooding in our state. I want to encourage those Floridians defying the experts to reconsider their strategy and check out our preparedness guide for information about how to protect life and property.

Some important tips from the guide include:

- Know evacuation routes and shelter locations;
- Stock up on enough food, water and emergency supplies for the entire household for at least seven days;
- Check that storm-related products are hurricane-proof or impact-proof before purchasing; and

- Report price gouging to our office using our No Scam app.

To access the 2023 Hurricane Preparedness Guide in English, click here. A Spanish version can be accessed here.

By preparing now for a potential storm strike, you can protect your family and help us build a Stronger, Safer Florida.

In The News

Billions of Robocalls Prompt FL Attorney General To Sue Avid Telecom, Patch St. Pete

Read More

Florida Attorney General, FDOT and safety partners raise awareness as "100 Deadliest Days for Teen Drivers" approaches, Alachua Chronicle

Read More

100 Deadliest Days for teen drivers in Florida, Villages-News

Read More

Florida Attorney General Ashley Moody warns of hurricane-related scams, ABC 20 Gainesville

Read More

State releases 2023 hurricane prep guide, ABC 7 Sarasota

Read More